

Benefiting from Fair Trade Standards

Hammering metal by hand is a craft tradition that has been used by artisans in Moradabad, India for centuries. Nizam is a metalworker who owns a workshop of his own and employs artisans in his community. Through his recent contract with Noah's Ark, one of Serrv's partners in India, he has learned about fair trade standards and has adopted them into his daily workshop operations. He and his artisans receive fair wages for the orders, and they also benefit from the social programs that Noah's Ark and Serrv offer. These include free medical and dental checkups, access to grants and loans for equipment, and access to clean water through storage tanks and filters.