

A Social Community

Smita loves coming to work at St. Mary's. When she sits and embroiders with the other women every Saturday, it is a time to socialize and forget about all the difficulties that life brings. The work offers not only a stable source of income, but a social community where the women become good friends.