

The craft. The story. The impact.

Global Fashion Collection

Deep Water Infinity Scarf 18223 $30

This handwoven acrylic and wool blend infinity scarf is super soft and warm without being too heavy, perfect for frosty mornings! It also features a beautiful deep aquamarine pattern on a bold peacock blue background.

A SERRV partner since 2003, this artisan group in Ecuador, two-thirds of whom are women, receives fair wages as well as access to global markets, product design assistance, and production training. They also utilize traditional weaving materials and techniques in many of their handcrafts, helping to keep indigenous Ecuadorian crafting traditions alive.

Calida Tagua Statement Necklace 18247 $42

Warm tones and bold color combine to create this eye-catching necklace, handmade from all-natural tagua nuts dyed then strung on cotton cord. It's adjustable, so you can wear it short or long.

A SERRV partner since 1980, this artisan group in rural Ecuador earns fair wages for their handcrafts. In 18 of Ecuador's 24 provinces, nearly 500 artisans and farmers gain access to business training while preserving traditional crafting techniques. This artisan group also donated food and other necessities to families near Quito affected by COVID.

Kantha Makeup Bag 32271 $18

If you love color, this is the bag for you! This small makeup pouch is made from recycled cotton saris and embellished with hand-stitched kantha embroidery. Includes a waterproof lining and is perfect for holding everything from cosmetics to electronics. It fits in a handbag or in a small carry-on suitcase. Plus, no two are alike, and each one will be truly one-of-a-kind.

A SERRV partner since 1990, this large artisan group in East India receives vital income and safe employment through handcrafting. Women are also empowered to form businesses and become financially independent while working reasonable hours and staying with their families.

Sunara Leaf Pendant Necklace 32732 $22

This beautiful, adjustable leaf pendant has a rainbow of colorful threads on one half and a delicate brass lattice on the other, complete with a suede backing.

A SERRV partner since 1976 (that's almost 50 years!), this artisan group in Delhi gains access to steady employment and fair wages. They support children in artisan families by teaching self-defense classes, ensuring that girls go to school, and providing scholarships to prevent child labor. They also provide adult literacy courses and technical training for women to improve their handcrafting skills.

Shana Jewelry Pouch 32831 $26

This 100% cotton pouch is beautifully hand embroidered with a floral and avian design. With ten individual pockets, this pouch keeps jewelry organized and untangled.

A must-have for travel!

A SERRV partner since 1990, this artisan group in Ahmedabad, India, all of whom are women, earns a steady income through fine hand-embroidery. Hindus, Muslims, and Christians work together in harmony in a safe environment, and receive access to education for them and their children.

Ocean Wave Scarf 34041 $28

This gorgeous scarf is one of SERRV's top-sellers! Pure silk is screen printed and hand painted in the brilliant colors and rolling patterns of an ocean wave by artisans in India. It's light enough and bold enough to be worn year round.

A SERRV partner since 1996, this artisan group employs over 300 individual artisans from the poorest parts of Kolkata and provides them a safe work environment in addition to a fair and steady income. Artisans also receive education as well as training to improve their handcrafting skills.

Java Batik Leather Necklace 37839 $26

This bold, adjustable leather statement necklace is made by artisans in Indonesia, and features traditional batik designs and colors. A matching cuff bracelet is also available.

A SERRV partner since 1993, this artisan group in Java supports nearly a hundred small family workshops in rural villages around Yogyakarta—providing access to handcraft training, fair and steady wages, micro loans, financial training, and international markets to sell their handcrafts.

Nandi Bracelets, Set of 5 84119 $22

Master weavers in eSwatini use their basket-weaving skills to create beautiful jewelry from hand-rolled and hand-dyed sisal. These sustainable bracelets in multiple colors are the perfect addition to any fall outfit.

A SERRV partner since 2010, this artisan group in eSwatini earns vital income through fair trade. More than 700 rural Swazi women artisans receive training to become skilled weavers, and they gain access to health care and education.

Cranberry Chrysanthemum Scarf 92873 $40

Lightweight and luxurious, this handmade 100% silk scarf features an open weave texture with deep cranberry coloring and a screen-printed chrysanthemum pattern. It's the perfect 'in-between' scarf, and a beautiful addition to any fall wardrobe.

A SERRV partner since 1999, this artisan group in Vietnam employs ethnic minorities, women and men with physical disabilities, and victims of the dangerous Agent Orange herbicide used during the Vietnam War. In each of their 70 producer groups across the country, artisans gain access to sustainable and fair employment free of exploitation, and essential healthcare. They also preserve precious traditional craft techniques.

